Love Lost off the Travers.

From the Omaha Herald.
One of the best known jewellers of this city had a call yesterday from a young man who had come to negotiate a delicate business. It was nothing less than the selling of an engagement ring, which, as the ex-customer said, he "had no further use for." He was reticent about the previous facts in the case, but finally, under pressure, "gave himself away," as the victim to the funniest kind of absent-mindedness. The confession was that he was coasting down Dodge street on a traverse some nights ago with the girl whom he was engaged to marry, and with two or three other parties, the girl having the last seat on the traverse, as she was timid, and he sitting in front of her. When they reached the foot of the hill and got off the sled to draw it up, one of the other boys exclaimed, "Why! where's K—?" (the young man).

He looked around and she was missing, for a fact. Hastening back, he found her scrabbling out of the snow, half chilled and indignant. She refused his offer to take her home, but insisted on going to the parental roof unaccompanied; and when he ventured to call the next night and inquire after her health, K—'s mother met the young man at the door and handed him the ring in a bit of paper and explained that her daughter thought she "didn't care to be tied up to a man who could lose her off a traverse and not know it."

Doctoring a Sick Elephant.

From the Bridgeport Pioneer.

The doctor who came up from New York yesterday to see the sick elephant ordered quinine for her. Prof. Astension went down to Fred Stephens' drug store and had four pills built at a cost of $5 a pill. The Professor was asked how many grains there were, and he replied that he didn't know, as the pills were "computed by showfuls." They were about eight inches long and two in diameter. After thrusting them down the elephant's throat with a stick, and finding she would not take it, he made her hold up her trunk and open her mouth, and, after several hard throws, succeeded in getting her to swallow it. It looked a good deal like playing ball, only the catcher missed the ball before catching it. The baby elephant seems to feel very badly about its mother's sickness. The mother is better to-day, and will probably get along all right.

A Southern Fish Story.

From the Savannah News.

A remarkable circumstance in connection with the recent cold snap was the effect on the fish along the coast, large schools being driven in shore and in shallow water. Strange as it may seem, it is asserted that the fish, particularly bass and trout, were observed to throw themselves bodily out of the water on land. An old negro caught thirty-one very fine large bass in this way at Raccoon Key, near Warsaw. On St. Catherine's a net thrown in the water was almost instantly filled by fine large fish, and fishermen found some difficulty in hauling the nets in. Others were observed to kill them in the water with oars. This novel occurrence was witnessed generally all along the islands to the southward and in the rivers near the coast.

CARPET-BAGGERS.

"A Fool's Errand," written by Judge A. W. Tougee, has had a remarkably large sale. It purported to give the experience of a Northern man who went South after the war and aimed to establish himself there in business—"fool's errand." The book excited a great deal of criticism, especially at the South, as it depicted in a vigorous fashion the social ostracism to which Northern men of Republican principles were subjected in the South after the war. Some of this criticism at the South has been favorable, but the most of it bitterly hostile. Recently Mr. Royal, a Southerner now resident in New York, published a pamphlet entitled "A Reply to 'A Fool's Errand.'" Mr. Royal has the Solid Southern sentiment very strong within him, as the following extract from his pamphlet shows:

"The number who were willing to forego all the enjoyments of their own homes to assist in the patriotic duty of reconstructing the rebel States, was equal to what the most enthusiastic patriot could have hoped from his countrymen; and the utter unselfishness with which they took possession of every office that had a salary attached to it was in perfect keeping with the patriotism of their natures. The whole South was at once overrun with the larvae of the North. Wherever there dwelt a scoundrel who feared that his neighbors would give him his deserts in the form of a coating of tar and feathers, that neighbor lost a citizen and the South gained an apostle of reconstruction. Whenever the womb of the North revolted at its burden and spewed forth some putrid mass of crime, the South received a patriot, who knew nothing but "restoration of the Union" and devotion to the poor, down-trodden negro."

In the N. Y. Tribune of January 31, Judge Tougee has a lengthy answer to Mr. Royal's pamphlet. The judge shows by facts and figures that the talk of Southern men about "carpet-baggers" has little or no foundation. He proves that the number of Northern men who settled in the South during the six years after the war was less than one-tenth of one per cent of the whole population of the South in 1870. Here are some of the striking figures presented by the Judge:

"How many were the 'larvae of the North' who thus 'overran the South?' Comparing the returns of the census, we shall find that, while in the year 1860 there were 119,913 persons in those States who were born north of Mason and Dix's line, in 1870 there were 130,611 of Northern birth resident in the late Confederacy, making 10,698 to constitute the inundation of 'Northern larvae!' This gives almost 1,000 persons to 1,000,000 of the population, or one in one thousand—one-tenth of one per cent. In North Carolina there were 491 more than in 1860. In South Carolina, 172 more than there were under the slave regime. Yet they were both 'overrun!' In Georgia there were 149 and in Alabama 503 less than at the beginning of the decade. Yet they were also 'overrun!' These States contain almost 1,900 counties, so that the inundation must have amounted to no less than ten persons to a county, counting male and female, or perhaps as many as two and a half voters. No wonder the Solid Southern compares them to the scourge of locusts which overran Egypt. It must have been a terrible infliction. In the whole South there was perhaps an accession of 3,000 voters, an average of 250 to a State, or about three to a county."

Judge Tougee next disposes, in the same unanswerable way, of the idea that the Republican party at the South was composed of "carpet-baggers" and negroes alone. This table which he gives shows the fallacy of the notion. It exhibits the proportion between the white and the colored people in the different ex-confederate States:

WHITES. COL.

Alabama	5	to	4
Arkansas	3	to	1
Florida	2	to	1
Georgia	3 1/2	to	1
Louisiana	1	to	1
Mississippi	3	to	4
North Carolina	2	to	1
South Carolina	3	to	4
Tennessee	3	to	1
Texas	3 1/2	to	1
Virginia	3	to	1
West Virginia	15	to	1

"In only three of these States, to wit: South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana, could the solid colored vote, with the insignificant contingent of Northern-born immigrants since a war, turn the scale against the solid white vote."

The author of "A Fool's Errand" proceeds to show that if the treatment of immigrants from the North had been fair and tolerant, the South would have had an immense increase of population after the war. He does not attempt to defend the so-called carpet-bag State governments, but he shows that the responsibility rests not upon the Northern immigrants, but upon the Southern men who formed them. There was but the merest sprinkling of Northern men in those State governments. How else could it have been, with only 3,000 Northern voters in all the States south of Marion & Dixon's line?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Baptist preachers of New York lately compared theories and conjectures as to the language spoken by Jesus of Nazareth in his conversation with his disciples and his sermons to the multitudes. A distinguished Orientalist of that city thinks the views of the Baptist ministers not worth mentioning, and gives the following as his own opinion: "Greek must have been spoken by the Savior, at least a part of the time, for the occasions on which he used Aramaic words are specially mentioned, as, for instance, in raising the dead girl, in opening the dumb man's mouth, and when he uttered his last words on the cross. If all his sayings had been in Aramaic, these special phrases would probably not have been singled out as they were, and the interpretation of them given in Greek. Of course, when he spoke to the peasants and rustics generally he used the language with which they were familiar, and which was, as I have said, the Aramaic."

The weather on the sun was bad last month. Fearful winds swept its surface, tearing such rents in its gaseous envelope that they were distinctly seen by observers on the earth. Astronomers keep a careful watch of the sun. Hundreds of immense telescopes are daily directed at it. Indeed the sun is never free from surveillance, and when the astronomers on one side of the earth get out of range, the astronomers on the other side commence observations. Yet they have not learned the cause of those spots on the sun which come and go so fast. Some think they are caused by the fall of enormous meteoric masses on the sun; others that they are produced by the up-rush or down-rush of gaseous matter.

The people of Fracktown have sent a petition to the Legislature, asking for an appropriation of $5,000 for the benefit of the sufferers by the late calamity there. We trust that the appropriation will be made, as we are informed that there is need of assistance.

We in Nevada of course all know that Senator Fair is in the habit of addressing men as "my son," but isn't the Washington Republican getting into the region of fiction when it says he is invariably addressed a woman as "my dear child!"

In Grass Valley last week there arose a long discussion as to whether cows have front teeth in their upper jaw or not. There were lots of people there who did not know that no horned animal has front teeth in the upper jaw.

By consolidation, the capital stock of the Western Union Telegraph is increased to $30,000,000. It is alleged that stockholders have been guaranteed 8 per cent. per annum in dividends. This is equal to a disbursement of $6,000,000 per annum.

Black pearls are very valuable and extremely rare. Only about half a dozen of them are known to be in existence. The English crown once had three, but they were stolen from it.

E. Langtry, the husband of the famous beauty, Mrs. Langtry, contradicts in a letter to the N. Y. World the report that she is going on the stage.

The Carson Tribune, which has had a good deal to say lately about the characteristics of legislators, is now discussing a new theme—honesty.

Mrs. Hayes, contradicts the story that she and Rutherford are to go abroad next spring.

THE YOLO OCEAN.

A Watery Waste for Miles and Miles.

From the Sacramento Bee.

Across the river, beyond, above and below Washington is a scene of desolation and dreariness. Almost as far as the eye can reach is one wild waste of water, relieved only by a few struggling tufts, a clump or two of willows and an occasional wreck of a house.

The muddy stream pours unrestrained over the vast valley, and the mountains beyond look like Ararat in the desert of sea. Here and there may be seen chickens and cats lying down peacefully beside each other on the roof of some deserted shanty, while animals and birds roost in companionship in the tops of the few trees. The railroad winds like a snake through this inland sea, but not as it was wont to wind. There are no puffing engines, no rolling cars, no clickety-clackety of wheels. The strong waves have carried the ties and sleepers 60 or 70 feet away from their old position, and buoyed them up on their arms until they rest on the surface of the water, eight or nine feet above this tide ornamented waste. The telegraph poles appear very pygmies above the surface, while the top of the fence which line the road can only be seen at intervals here and there. The landmarks we were wont to see we can see no more. They are buried beneath a watery grave and removed from vulgar gaze. Away off, seemingly toward the land of the setting sun, the smoke could be seen arising from the steamer Dover as she plied through the wrecks of homes and ranches, saving what she could. There are no resting places on this deluged land, save where a strip of levee here and there invites the eye.

What She's Like.

London Correspondence. S. F. New Letter.

Mrs. Langtry has returned to town, and, as usual, is the central object of female interest and male admiration wherever she shows herself, be it in doors or out. She is a combination of black hair, violet eyes, a creamy complexion, no features to speak of, a perfect figure, small feet, in high-heeled, low-cut patent leather shoes, short skirts, and amber-colored silk stockings with bright gold clocks.

Because his wife scolded him for getting drunk, Herman Boer drank two ounces of laudanum, and jumped from a window in the third story of a

ROUND ABOUT.

The Carson Appeal says there are schemes on foot to break up the labor unions of this State. Parson Kelly, once rector of St. Peter's church in Carson, is a reporter on the Oakland, Cal., Tribune. Martin White, for many years a prominent Nevadan, has written from Tombstone to say that city is destined to become a second Virginia City. Reports from Quina river and Stein mountain are to the effect that cattle are miring in the soft bottom lands, and many of them will undoubtedly perish. The Comstock mines in twenty years have yielded in bullion $325,000,000, raised to the surface 1,750,000,000 tons of water, and have hoisted $160,000,000 tons of waste rock. Alton, Penn., has just lost a man so fat that the town was proud of him. He weighed 400 pounds. He became so heavy that his legs refused their office, and he died from the effects of a fall. Last Saturday night H. B. Pierce, while in the act of robbing a hen roost at Squabie Hollow, two miles from Santa Cruz, was shot and killed by Charles Watson, on whose place the robbery took place. Four Chinamen were drowned in the Columbia river, near Brookfield last week. Five were on their way from Pillar Rock to Brookfield in a small skiff. The craft was capsized by the waves of a passing steamer, and only one was rescued. Last Thursday while a drove of sheep, numbering about 200, were being driven across Bear river bridge on the old McCourtney road, Nevada county, the bridge suddenly gave way and precipitated them all into the stream below. About 100 were killed. Miss Adele Waters of Carson, it is said, has received a very complimentary offer from the management of the Fifth Avenue theater, New York; but as the young lady desires to remain in San Francisco a while longer, she temporarily declined.

The recent high water at Napa nearly starved out the rats, and the rodents are easily caught in traps. One gentleman caught some fifty or sixty in the last few days, and a case is reported where forty-eight were caught in two hours in a single trap.

Bayard Daily of Logansport, Ind., shot his betrothed wife, Annie Beckley, last month, because she refused to give him a dirk with which to kill a rival. She was given up to die, but surprised everybody by slowly recovering; and a few days ago, as soon as she could stand on her feet, she was married to the man who so nearly murdered her.

Valuable for Women to Know.

Professor Kedzie gives the following valuable information: "Cane sugar is two and one-half times as sweet as grape sugar, closely allied to it, and differs so little from it that some persons cannot distinguish it. By cooking, the cane sugar may be changed to grape sugar, and thus lose its sweetening power. Some women put the sugar in with a mass of acid fruit to be cooked, and keep cooking and adding sugar, while it keeps on growing sourer, until at last they use two and one-half times as much sugar as they need to secure the desired result. The cane sugar had changed to grape sugar. Now, if the sugar had been added after the fruit was cooked much less would have been required, and the result would have been far more satisfactory."

How Ale Was Tested in Old Times.

A curious survival of an old-time institution exists in some remte places in England, viz., the official ale-taster. The ale-taster takes an oath to "try, taste and assize the beer and ale, put on sale" in his district "whether the same be wholesome for man's body." The old ale-taster's method of "analyzing" beer for the purpose of detecting the addition of sugar to the liquor was rather primitive. Like most men in those times, he wore leather breeches, and, when he went to test the ale for the presence of sugar, a pint of fluid was split on a well-cleaned bench, and the taster sat upon it till it dried. If, on rising, the seat of the breeches stuck to the bench, then sugar was present, but if not the beer was pure.

The simplest post-office in the world is in Magellan Strait, and has been established there for some years past.

It consists of a small cabin, which is chained to the rock of the extreme cape in the Straits, opposite Terra del

Fuego. Each passing ship sends a boat to open the cabin and to take letters out and place others into it. The post-office is self-acting therefore; it is under the protection of the navies of all nations, and up to the present there is not one case to report in which any abuse of the privileges it affords have taken place.

At a meeting of the House Interoceanic Canal Committee on Saturday,

the sub-Committee on the Eads' Ship

Railway bill reported it back with the guarantee section stricken out. They accompanied the report with a recommendation to insert, in lieu of the omitted section, a modified proposition providing for a guarantee of in-thirty years, with enlarged require-—Mrs. Temple has a splendid lot of valentines for sale.

—The hotel business of Steamboat springs has greatly improved.

—Perkins & White have fitted up rooms in the Palace upstairs for faro.

—Cook-fighting in town is illegal. See Vol. 2, Sec. 2487, Compiled Laws.

—Mr. Woods has set some men at work sinking on a promising ledge east of the Esmeralda.

—The masquerade ball in the theatre two weeks from this evening will be the next "social event."

—There was an immense circle about the moon last night, perfect in form, and with clearly defined edges.

—The ladies of Trinity parish are again reminded that they are to meet at the church to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock.

—The C.P. will transport no corpse hereafter unless a medical certificate is produced to show that death was not caused by a contagious disease.

—"High-toned" people sometimes travel on the emigrant trains. Last week a family went through on an emigrant car with two servants to attend them.

—T. B. Camp was a Major in the Union army during the war, and was disabled while in active service. Yesterday he received his back pension, amounting to $1,800.

—Stocks show but little change. Prices this morning in Board for the stocks named were: Ophir 4 1/2, Mexican 4 9/16, Sierra Nevada 5 1/2, Bullion 1 80, Union 8 1/4, Alta 1 30.

—In the Justice's Court yesterday A. J. Smith and R. A. Frazer for $225 damages caused by sheep breaking into plaintiff's fields. The jury last evening returned a verdict for the defendant.

—A young man well known about town was last night arrested for beating a bawd on the street, but in order to save disgrace to his respectable connections, and on his promise to keep the peace, he was released.

—For an hour or two after sunrise this morning the sky was filled with fleecy clouds of singular texture and rare beauty. They were likened in their feathery delicacy to white ostrich plumes, twisted and curled and drawn athwart the sky.

—The stockings which were displayed on the lightning rods of a young lady last evening, through an unfortunate slip at the corner of Virginia street and Commercial Row, were not sold at the White House. The White House keeps only men's furnishing goods—no long hose.

The K. of P. excursion.

The departure of 100 excursionists from Reno last evening made a great stir at the depot, not to speak of the additional attraction of a newly-married couple. The V. & T. train came in an hour late, and the overland did not start with the excursionists until about ten o'clock. Five cars were filled with excursionists from Carson, one by Comstock people, and Reno filled two, making eight carloads in all. The majority of those who went were ladies. Two sleeping cars were set apart for ladies exclusively.

Gospel Spreading at the Bay—Damages by the Flood—A Ferryboat Collision.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.

At a meeting of the San Francisco Ministerial Association this morning, about sixty members being present, it was resolved to observe Thursday, February 17, as a day of fasting and prayer, and all churches on the coast were invited to unite in its observance.

James Scott, of Glasgow, has come over with an invitation from the churches of that city to Moody and Sankey to hold meetings there, and they expect to sail for Great Britain in September next.

Dispatches from Portland, Oregon, say the destruction of live stock by the recent flood is very heavy. In Yakima county the loss amounts to eighty per cent.; in Wasco county fifty per cent., and in the section east of the Cascade mountains the loss is unprecedentedly heavy.

A dispatch from Redding says: All the buildings at the United States Fishery, on the McCloud river, have been carried away by the late storm.

A dispatch from Sacramento says: Ordered that the county printing, so far as blanks are concerned, be awarded to R. L. Fulton as per bid and contract. Ordered that any county printing, so required by law, the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners shall cause the same to be done, and bills for the same to be presented to the county same as any other bills affecting the county.

Ordered that the Sheriff be allowed $125 per month for an under Sheriff, as prescribed in Sec. 16 of an Act fixing the salaries of the various county officers in the several counties of this State, approved March 11, 1879, and that no further allowance be made for deputies in the Sheriff's office.

The ferryboats Bay City and Oakland collided in the bay in a heavy fog yesterday. The first named boat was damaged somewhat. Nobody was hurt.

The Flood on the San Joaquin.

STOCKTON, Feb. 6.

There is more or less water over all the islands in the San Joaquin river. The steamer Centennial went down today to save stock and convey it to San Francisco. The plains are covered with water. Below Roberts Island the levees are all right but soaked, and the water is seeping through.

Mokelumne river overflowed below Woodbridge Saturday afternoon, and the country is a sea for miles. The levee broke at Newhope at 11 o'clock Saturday night. The river is rising at Lockeford.

The Gray Trial.

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 5.

In the trial of Clarence Gray nine jurors have been passed. There is deep interest manifested in the case, but no particular excitement prevails.

Fire at Crystal Peak.

Special to the GAZETTE.

VERDI, Feb. 8.

The malt house of the Crystal Peak brewery burned about 9:30 last night. It is supposed to have been set on fire.

Gov. Murray of Utah on the Cannon Contest and Polygamy.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.

The Tribune's Washington special says: Your correspondent conversed for a few moments last evening with Governor Murray of Utah. "I filed on a full statement of the case Saturday with Clerk Adams of the House of Representatives," said he, in answer to an inquiry about the contest between Cannon and Campbell for a seat in the Lower House.

Reporter—What are its main points? Governor Murray—Simply that Cannon, who had a majority of votes, was never naturalized, and cannot, therefore, be a delegate in Congress.

Reporter—Did the Mormon question enter into the case as a reason for your decision against Cannon?

Governor Murray—Not at all. It was none of my business how many wives Cannon had. That ought to disqualify him from holding office, but it does not and will not until Congress takes action on the subject.

Reporter—How does the institution of polygamy appear to you, Governor, upon close inspection?

Governor Murray—In many respects polygamy slavery is worse than negro slavery. The non-Mormon portion of the community, numbering about 30,000 souls, has been petitioning for years that steps for its abolition should be taken by Congress, but nothing has been done.

Reporter—How does it affect the political affairs of the Territory?

Governor Murray—It overshadows everything. It is capable of accomplishing its purposes, whatever they may be, by means of the extension of the suffrage to married women. Under the alien laws of the United States a man must be a resident of the country for a certain number of years and have attained a certain age before he is entitled to citizenship and to the franchise. Under the laws of Utah a man next day after naturalization may marry as many wives as he chooses, and they may all vote. He may, for instance, marry a Chinese 12 years old, who has not been in the country for a month, and that act will enable her to vote.

Ross Lewers Assists R. L. Fulton. Special to the GAZETTE.

CARSON, Feb. 8.

Ross Lewers made a cowardly attack upon the editor of the GAZETTE at ten o'clock this morning. He is a powerful man, but so clumsy that the editor fought him off without receiving any damage.

Lake vs. Reno Savings Bank—Deferrer to intervention; set for trial Feb. 9.

Wellman vs. Irwin—On trial.

A Long-Headed Indian.

Naches, sensible man and great chief that he is, is glad that the railroad company no longer allows Indians to ride free on the cars. He tells the Silver State that many of them neglect everything and will not work, fish or hunt so long as they are permitted to ride on cars, preferring to go from station to station begging for something to eat, to staying at one place and earning their own living. He hopes Division Superintendents Coddington and Free will not revoke the quarantine order for a while, and only give Indians who have business at points along the road, permission to ride.

A Quiet Wedding.

The marriage of Herman J. Thyes to Miss Alice Higgins took place at 7:30 last evening, at the house of the bride's parents. A few of the most intimate friends of the family were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. R. Jenvey. The young couple left on the excursion train last evening for San Francisco. When they return they will go to house-keeping in Mrs. Thomas' house on Sierra street.

New Game For Evening Parties.

In Winnemucca a new game has been started for the benefit of evening parties. The ladies write their names on a slip of paper, wrap it in a ball of yarn, twine or rag, and when they get to the place where the party is to be held, each lady puts her ball into a basket. Before leaving, each gentleman draws a ball from the basket, and takes the lady home whose name is found in the ball. It's more fun than having the measles or falling off a log to see the pairing off.

Bob Taylor's Fiddle.

From the Washington National Republican.

The Hon. Robt. Taylor of the First Tennessee District, who, in the Senatorial contest in his State yesterday, received thirty-seven votes, or five more than any other candidate, is said to be the champion "fiddler" of the House of Representatives. It is related by his defeated Democratic opponent that during the Congressional campaign he had awful hard work to hold his own with Mr. Taylor in the stump speeches, but when the latter produced the Cremona and split the pure mountain air with that soul-stirring tune, "The Arkansas Traveller," he recognized that he was beaten even before the votes were counted.

Largest Book Published.

The new edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, just issued, is believed to be, in the quantity of matter it contains, by far the largest volume ever published; it now contains about 118,000 words defined, and nearly 15,000 words and meanings not found in any other one dictionary. The Biographical Dictionary, just added, supplies a want long felt by the reader and student, in giving the desired information so briefly. Never was any one volume so complete as an aid in getting an education.
